THE MYSTERY SOLVED.

TRAGIC STORY OF H. E. ELDER, OF DEME-RARA-ROBBED OF HIS MONEY AND WITHOUT RESOURCES HE FLEES FROM DESPAIR TO DEATH-IDENTIFICATION OF THE BODY FOUND OFP THE BATTERY.

The mystery surrounding the death and identity of the unknown South American whose body was found floating off the Battery on Wednesday morning was completely dispelled yesterday. The body was recognized as that of H. E. Elder, a native of Demerara, who landed in this city last month, and a good deal of evidence was obtained, which places beyond reasonable doubt the theory that he came by his end through his own act. It is almost certain that in a fit of despair, caused by entire lack of resources, he bandaged his eyes, tightly bound his own hands and sought oblivion from his troubles in the river. Superintendent Walling from the beginning took an active interest in the After consultation with Captain Kealy, chief of the detective squad, a number of the most competent officers in the department were detailed to investigate, and if possible as-certain, the manner of the man's mysterious death. Superintendent Walling instructed the keepers at the Morgue to send him word without delay in case the body should be identified. Not, however, until yesterday morning could anything be ascertained which would shed light on the case or point to the identity of deceased. The corpse re-mained at the Morgue and was viewed by a number of people. Among these were two men, one of them a mate on board a vessel, who identified deceased as H. E. Elder. He was 29 years of age, and on the 21st of last October he arrived in this city on the brig Ida, from Demerara, his native place. At home he was employed as clerk in a publishing house. He was employed as clerk in a publishing house. He was well educated and of good family. Falling in business he concluded to try his fortune in this country. A few weeks after his arrival in the city he was robbed by a room mate of all the money he possessed, amounting to about $40. Finding himself without money or friends, and not able to procure employment, he sought out the British Consul in this city and made application to receive deportation back to Demerara. This request was denied, and then it was that deceased became despondent, as is alleged, and expressed his intention of committing suicide. The story of his trip to this city on the brig Ida, together with other interesting particulars, was told yesterday at the Coroner's office.

FULLY IDENTIFIED.

Edward Smith, captain of the brig ida, stated that he left Barbados, W. L., on the 30th September with a cargo of molasses, consigned to H. Trowbridge & Sons, of this city, and was twenty-one days making the passage. "I brought a man over as passenger by the name of H. E. Elder," said Captain Smith, "and I reported" his arrival at the Mayor's office in this city October 25, on which day he went ashore: the next day the same passenger. Elder by name, returned to the vessel and stated that he had lost his money, and I have not seen him since; I never knew the man until he came to my vessel; he was addicted to drink."

John C. Coleman, of No. 125 Schonectady avenue, Brocklyn, a truck driver, testified that two weeks ago he took the luggage of a man from on beard the brig idla to Delancey street; the luggage consisted of a small square chest, two bags and a small box.

H. W. Faney, of No. 615 Washington avenue, Brooklyn, stated that about four weeks ago he heard to see the mate, Frederick Quinian, with whom he was intimately acquainted, and in that manner became known to deceased. The latter would occasionally talk about his trip from Barbados, and went to see the mate, Frederick Quinian, with whom he was intimately acquainted, and in that manner became known to deceased. The latter would occasionally talk about his trip from Barbados, "I last saw him alive," said Mr. Faney, "about two weeks ago, since which time he has been stopping ashore. I went to the vessel yesterday and the mate showed me an article in the fixuald in reference to a man found off the Battery. On reading the article the mate and I concluded the drowned body was that of Elder, the passenger from Barbados; the mate then told me that this same man had said that in consequence of being out of work and funds he, deceased, intended to commit suicide; this morning I went to the Morgue and identifi morning I went to the Morgue and identified the remains."

RORDED OF HIS MONEY.

Frederick Quinlan, first mate of the brig Ida, deposed:—"We arrived from Barbados four weeks ago yosterday. The deceased, Elder, was a passenger from Barbados. He did not act at all strangely on the passage, and when he landed at this port I understood he had about $40 with him. He left the vessel on reaching here and boarded somewhere in Cortlandt street, where he paid a week's board in advance. On the Tuesday following he came to the vessel, saying that he had been robbed of all his money, consisting of about $35, the Sunday night previous while asleep. He blamed a companion who roomed with him, and whose acquaintance he had made since landing. He felt badly over his loss. I gave him sixty cents, and he remained about the vessel until the following Friday. The captain then requested him to leave, and gave him sufficient money tor two weeks board. His bagage was removed to some place in the Bowery. Before leaving the vessel, on shaking hands with me, he said:—
'You will either find me in the East River or in the Penitentary. He had previously visited the English Consul and asked for an order to grant him a passage to Barbados and that he would pay for the same on reaching his destinatin. The Consul refused to grant his request, This was the last I saw of him alive. Yesterday I read an article in the Hikhald in reference to a man being found off the Baitery, and I spoke of the same to Mr. Faney. We went to the Morgue and identified the remains. I believe that he committed suicide by drowning himself."

After leaving the boarding house in Cortlandt street, deceased took up his quarters on electrox day at No. 14 Delancey street, a boarding house and saloon, where he remained until last Tuesday morning. The previous night he took away his trunk, saying he was going on board ship. He returned to the Delancev street boarding house Monday night, and finally took his departure at noon the following day. The proprietor of the saloon speaks of deceased as a quiet, melancholy and studious sort of man, and says that during his residence in the Delancey street quarters he was abstemious in his labits. He was assisted in carrying away his trunk by an unknown boy. It has not been ascertained what disposition he made of the trunk or the contents, or how he came to part with his heavy ulster. The body will be interred in Potter's Field.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

OPINION OF DR. FORDYCE BARKER-HANGING THE MOST BARBAROUS OF ALL MODES OF EX-

To judge from the number of doctors absent from their homes attending patients yesterday afternoon one would have thought that the city was in a very unhealthy condition. A REBALD reporter was in search of information, not how to cure, but how to kill, and that in the most speedy, painless and scientific manner. The bungling executions of the past two weeks have sent a thrill of horror throughout the country, and a natural desire has resulted to substitute for the antiquated and imperfect method of hanging some bet-ter and more certain means of taking human life under the law. The medical faculty are, without exception, shead of the majority of their fellow citizens in this respect, as they have for years advocated a change. To a number of these gentle-men the reporter went yesterday to ascertain what method of capital punishment they would substitute for that of hanging. Only two of the physicians called upon could be found—Dr. Fordyce Barker and Dr. Austin Flint. The latter was met on the steps of his house in a great hurry to keep an engagement. When told the object of the reporter's visit he said that he had no time to be interviewed, and "his opinions were not of any importance any way." The reporter persisted that anything that Dr. Flint might say would have great weight with the public, but he declared that he had no convictions on the subject and hurried away.

THE CULLLOTINE PREFILIAGE.

Dr. Fordyce Barker was also found in a similar situation. His carriage was waiting for him at the quor, but he kindly tarried a tew moments to talk.

"Of all the modes of capital punishment," said he,
"I consider hanging the most barbarous. Even the French guillotine is preferable. I have no doubt there are many ways of inflicting instantaneous and painless death that would be practicable for executions; but I have not studied the subject much and could not say what would be the best substitute for hanging."

"Conid electricity be utilized for the purpose?"

could not say what would be the best substitute for hanging."

"Could electricity be utilized for the purpose?"

"I do not know that it would be painless. Death by the guillotine. I believe, is instantaneous. I have never investigated the matter and do not know the effects of punishment by the garrote. As I said before, I have not studied this matter. My business has been that of trying to save life instead of cutting it short."

DEATH BY CARBONIC OXIDE-ANOTHER CONTRI-BUTION TO THE SEARCH FOR A SUBSTITUTE

FOR HANGING. TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:-Apropos of your editorial in to-day's Henald on "Hanging Discussed by Scientisis," allow me to call your attention and Mr. Henry Bergh's to some observations and suggestions recently made by a distinguished surgeon of Philadelphia, Dr. John Packard. This gentleman urges, as the result of his careful ex. amination, that death should be produced by carbonic oxide. He proposes that the victim should be placed in a small air tight room; the air should then be rapidly replaced by carbonic oxide gas, when death will take place in the most apid and painless manner known to science. In ten minutes, indeed, the corpse can be removed from the room and identified by a jury. The process, as compared with those cases of hanging, not very frequent, where the death struggles last for five or even fifteen minutes, certainly seems superior. The method which Professor Darling suggests, of dividing the medulia oblongata with a small knife called the tenotomy, and the French plan of executing by the guillotine, recommended by Professor Draper, have, I think, as many objections on the same grounds as the gallows. In the first place, as Mr. Bergh says, "The death is visible, is manual, and man is made to commit nurrier and with his own hands take the life of a human being," &c. On the other hand, to perform such an operation as Dr. Darling has suggested, it would require the service of a skifful surgest, it would require the service of a skifful surgest, it would require the service of a skifful surgest, it would require the service of a skifful surgest, it would require the service of a skifful surgest, it would require the service of a skifful surgest, the man if one could be persuased or would be willing to perform such an operation for the purpose of destroying the life of a fellow creature, though he be a criminal. The law, however, must take the life of an offender and thus remove from the world its criminals; but for humanity's sake let her substitute some other method as effectual, but more merciful and less cruel, and, may I add, more acceptable and less repugmant to society. Yours, respectivity, J. J. Lamadrid, M. B.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:-Would you please call the attention of the "finest in the world" to a cart which three months ago lost the initials "D. P. W.," but now it is so nearly a wreck it would be hard to find any initials, number or anything else; but as it was loaded with garbage the stench from it almost suffocates a number of employes in the Appraiser's Department. The cart can be seen between Washington and West on Hubert street.

May I inquire in your complaint book how soon Receiver Russel will pay the next or final dividend? The cold weather is near at hand, and th knowledge of getting something would be very welcome to a good many who need it, or does he only

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD :-How is it the Third avenue horse railroad will charge five cents for a four-year-old child with its parents and allow pedlers and washerwomen to carry into the cars' immense baskets of tinware and dirty clothes free? I ride frequently on the cars, and, like other passengers, am much annoyed with this basket noisance, and yot when my wife and I and child yesterday got into a crowded car I had to pay fiteen cents because said child was a few months over four years of age. No other road is so anxious to bleed the public, and I think it time a change was made.

CERTAINLY. TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD :-

Will you please answer this through your "Com-plaint Book?" On Saturday, the Stn inst., while passing through Duane street, east of Centre street, there was a hose from the top of the corner building with a bluish liquid running from it, which I have good cause to think was vitrioi, as I will show. As I raised this hose it bursted, and I caught the stream all over my overcoat, hat, dresscoat and collar. The two coats and hat turned red in spots; the shirt collar has turned groen. Now, wanting to go out on Sunday, I used ammonia to clean my coat, which has partly restored the color; but my clothes are rained. Can I not recover the value of my clothes spoiled?

ANOTHER "L" ROAD INCONVENIENCE. TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:-

One very great inconvenience on the "L" roads is the delay caused by waiting at the ticket windows for change and the fact that the same is frequently short. Sometimes one or more passengers miss a train on account of one person waiting for and then counting his change. Being pushed by the crowd he is unable to count his money before he gets on the train, when he finds it is wrong. It happened to me several times on the Sixth avenue line that I was charged twenty cents fare. How is it I never received too much? Now this can be very easily changed. Let the company introduce the envelope system. For instance, in return for $1 turnish the passenger with an envelope containing ninety cents and the ticket. Then there would be no delay and no overcharge.

My vessel being on a passage from Shelburne, N. S., to New York, four days out, I desired to be reported and ran the vessel's numbers up. The first steamer passed inside of a mile to windward, the second steamer about two miles, also to windward, neither vessel took the slightest notice of our signals, yet by the naked eye men were plainly seen walking their decks. This was an act of discourtesy on the part of men styling themselves shipmasters and,

WARNING TO BOARDING HOUSE KEEPERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:-Knowing that you are always ready to expose crime or any sort of rascality, I wish to inform you of a boarding house dead beat whose field of labor has been for some time in the Ninth ward. Her modus operandi is as follows:—She introduces her-self as sister-in-law to a distinguished statesman. She has just returned from Uties; her luggage is at the depot; she is willing to pay very liberally for good accommodations; she pretends to have some clegant furniture, among which is a splendid piano, all of which she desires to move to her boarding house. Of course there is a delay in getting luggage, plano, &c., moved, and the result is she gets from one to seven days; board, according to the amount of confidence she inspires. She pretends to have travelled over most of America and Eastern continents, and to be highly educated, speaking several languages. She says she has a very rich father, who is an extensive dealer in fast horses, and that he owns a splendid mansion in Madison avenue, this city. She is a woman about forty years of age, black hair, little gray; dark complexion and niedium size; dresses plain. After remaining several days, bagrage and furniture not having arrived, and being arged for money, she starts at once for the bank, of course never returning. She has swindled people on Bedford, Macdougal and Fourth streets. Boarding house keepers will de well to look out for this contemptible impostor.

FOOTBALL.

FIRST GAME OF THE SERIES BETWEEN THE YALE AND HABVARD PRESHMEN-YALE THE

VICTORS. [BY TELEGRAPH TO THE HERALD.]

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 22, 1879. The first game of the football series between the Yale and Harvard freshmen occured this afternoon in this city. The Harvard team were slightly the cavier of the two, but were not so well built as the Yale men. · Cabot, of the former, and Beck, of the latter, were the only university men playing. was a closely contested game, though Yale had the ball well in her hands during most of the time, and was only pressed once, when in the second half Harvard began to make things lively.

Messrs. W. B. Hill, of Yale, '81, and Morse, of Harvard, '81, were judges. The referee was Mr. Thatcher, '82, of the Harvard University team. In the first inning good work was done. After two claimed "touchdowns," which were disallowed, Stanton for Yale scored a "touchdown." but the goal was missed. Later in the inning there was another disputed "touchdown;" both sides had to touch for safety. The second inning was equally exciting, and gave Yale another "touchdown." No goals were scored, and the victory for Yale was by two "touchdowns" to nothing. The result of the game strengthens the Yale sentiment of playing with eleven men. She has consistently advocated this plan for several years, and if she wins at Hoboken on Thursday next will doubtless insist upon it next season, for as champion she will have the power to decide these and other similar points. The Harvard men played as follows:—Rushers—Messrs. Baxter, Lee, Rockwell, Rice and Morrison (capitain). Half-backs—Messrs. Cabot, Kent, and Keith. Backs—Messre. Curtis and Fuller. The Yale team were:—Rushers—Messrs. Spring, Beck, T. Hillard, Parrott and Colgate. Half-backs—Messrs. Jones, Stanton and Corwith. Backs—Messrs. Wright and Beach. After the game the Yale sophomores and freshipen had a rush. the first inning good work was done. After two BOYS VICTORIOUS. Yale and Columbia indulged in a flerce struggle for supremacy in football yesterday afternoon on the Hoboken cricket grounds. Despite the prestige of the New Haven boys they won two goals and three touchdowns only after a hard fight with the New York collegians. The respective teams were as follows:—Columbia—Forwards, Messrs, Remington, Henry, Hausling, Clark, Sterns, Potts, Octavian, Bush and De Forest; half-backs, Burton, Conover and Trowbridge; backs, Simpkins Ledoux and Captain Morgan. Frank Brown was um-pire for Columbia. Yale—Forwards, Messrs. More head, Lamb, Harding, Kemington, Knapp, Merrill, Vernon and Eaton; half-backs, Clark, Peters, Badger and Captain Camp; three-quarter-back, Watson; backs, Nickson and Lyman. Mr. McHeffry was um-pire for Yale, and Mr. Herrick, of Harvard, was ref-

Shortly after three o'clock the teams were in the field. The Columbia boys were blue flannel shirts. on which was displayed the letter "C," and white flannel trunks. The Yale boys sported black cloth trunks and white flannel shirts. Columbia won the toss, and chose the north side of the field. Captain Camp, of Yale, started the ball on an aerial journey that inspired the New Haven boys with confidence. Columbia returned the sphere in capital style, and after dexterous kicking on both sides it was forced over to the east side. A hot struggle followed, in which the captains were conspicuous, and after the ball had been rushed to the west side of the field it was run back again to the eastern boundary by the Yale men, who found it impossible to break through Columbia's line. Peters, of Yale, distinguished himself by excellent playing here, but in the midst of the rush he received a violent kick in the stomach. The ball had meanwhile been forced out of bounds, and as he lay on the ground, unable to move, the spectators crowded about him and the game was temporarily sus pended. Peters was soon able to leave the ground, with assistance, and Durand took his place. Columbia had the advantage when the ball was again in the held, and by the energetic playing of Conover, Henry and Morgan rushed it down to uncomfortable proximity to Yalo's goal. The latter then indulged in field, and by the energetic playing of Conover, Henry and Morgan rushed it down to uncomfortable proximity to Yale's goal. The latter then indulged in "a touchdown for safety" and Columbia stock went up. The ball having reached the field Badger, of Yale, grabbed it and ran like a deer with his prize until Henry, of Columbia, stopped his sport, and, with the assistance of Remington and Sterns, Badger measured his length on the turf. The pilling up of collegians that ensued suggested a pyramid. Eaton, of Yale, came to the rescue, and by a well directed kick gained a "touch-in-goal." Captain Camp followed up the advantage by projecting the sphere between the posts in capital style, and so close to the goal that the Yale men bogan to shout themselves hearse. There was a general stampede in the direction of the ball from all parts of the field, but it was buried beneath half a dozen men, and for a while the result was an uncertain quantity.

An Excerting isomer.

In the fight for the ball, which was fierce and long sustained, Eaton, of Yale, got possession of it and tried the same game by running toward the eastern boundary. And here occurred one of the most exciting incidents of the day. Remington rushed up, catching him by the neck, and Henry, by an orthodox hip-tock movement, tossed him on the ground. There was a lively scrambie for the ball, in which two of his associates, with more sympathy than judgment, pulled away at his leg as if trying to dismember him. Yale men said emphatically that it was time to stop injuring their men, and a warm discussion followed. Bacon was substituted, after another suspension of the game, and when the ball was again in motion Morgan, of the Columbias, did some pretty running with the sphere under his arm until Harding, of Yale, interrupted him and helped rush it over to the eastern boundary again, midway between goals. During their men, and a warm discussion followed. Bacon was substituted, after another suspension of the game, and when the ball was occupied by the teams more tha as time was called. During the three-quarters of an hour Yale had only won a "touchdown," white both teams had indulged in two "touchdowns for safety."

THE SECOND INNING.

Captain Morgan, of Columbia, kicked off at the beginning of the second inning, and after some lively rushing back and forth Captain Camp attracted attention. He had received a vigorous blow in the stomach from somebody's cibow and was doing his best to regain his wind. The teams watched him with interest, and as soon as he was successful the game proceeded. The ball flow from the eastern to the western boundary and back again as if these were the goals, and for a while no progress was made by either side. Remington, of Columbia, then took a hand in the fight and projected the sphere over the heads of Yale, and his comrades made a grand rush to increase their advantage. Moorehead and Lamb, of Yale, fought sturdly against them and were well backed. Captain Camp raised the sphere handsomely and Captain Morgan gave him a Roland for his Oliver by catching it in good style. Moorehead ran so well with the ball that he gained a "touchdown" for Yale, and Camp, by an admirable play, won the goal for Yale. In the next struggle Yale pressed Columbia so hard that the latter was forced to a "touchdown for safety." Then Lamb, of Yale, carried the bail "offside," and a wrangic ensued as to whether Yale had won a "touchdown." Everybody talked at once, and when the referce could be heard his decision was found to be against Yale. Captain Morgan caught the ball from a Yale man, and utilized his free kick in admirable style, sending the sphere toward the western boundary, where the Columbia, had a spirited contest when the ball had been rushed down to Columbia, Be and Hausling, of Yale, was just where he was wanted, and his playing spoiled the run of Columbia, a deal man, and utilized his free kick in admirable style, sending the sphere toward the western boundary, where the castern boundary anni Captain Camp stood behind the hall for a copy distained to Yale.

Columbia indulged in seven "touchdowns" for safety" and Yale two. On Thursday next Yale and Princeton meet on the Hoboken Cricket Grounds.

A LIVELY GAME IN BROOKLEN.

A lively game of football, lasting for nearly two hours, was played yesterday on Brevoort's lots, near Bedford avenue, Brooklyn. The eleven led by Captain Reed secured the first goal quite easily, and it looked as though they had an easy task before them. The cleven led by Captain French, however, warmed up to the work and won the next three goals and the game. The contast was for the best three in five innings. In each of the last three innings the losing side secured one touch-down. The first game of the series was won by the Nostrand Club under Captain Reed. This one was won by the Gates Club, under Captain French, and a third game will be played on Thanksgiving Day, but the place and hour have not yet been agreed upon.

The Polytechnic and Seawanhaka Football clubs of Brooklyn met on the Parade Ground at Prospect Park, that city, yesterday, for a match game. After the game had been in progress about half an hour two or three members of each club, the two clubs being closely matched, became involved in a quarrel. The Polytechnics finally withdrew from the contest, and the game was therefore awarded to the Seawan-hakes. The former club claimed one goal, but the latter disputed the fairness of the playing.

ENDED IN A QUARREL.

DID NOT COME TO THE MARK.

The football match announced for to-day between the Princeton College and University of Pennsylvania teams did not come off, owing to the non-ap-pearance of the Princeton men. The University players were present, and considerable surprise was manifested at the absence of their opponents.

TROTTING.

A trotting sweepstakes came off yesterday afternoon at the Gentlemen's Driving Park (late Fleetwood), between Mr. W. Lane's bay gelding Mcblack gelding Auburn Boy, Mr. A. Thompson's bay gelding Charley, Mr. G. Sharp's brown gelding Ben, and Mr. Smith's pied gelding Bow Legged Billy; the race being mile heats, best three in five, in harness, the stake $300. The track was in capital order, and the race throughout highly exciting to the parties in attendance. Charley was favorite. The first heat was very closely contested throughout, and the result was in doubt until the horses reached the judges' stand. Minnie won the heat by half a length, Auburn Boy second, a neck in front of Charley; Bow Legged Billy fourth, Ben 2:46%. Charley continued the favorite, Minnie second choice. The horses had a straggling start for ond choice. The horses had a straggling start for the second heat, with Minnie leading, Auburn Boy second, Ben third, Charley fourth, McGregor fifth, Bow Legged Billy sixth. Minnie led to the quarter pole, but on the lower turn Charley ran until he was in front. When he was pulled to a trot Minnie passed him and was first at the half pole. Charley ran again going up the hill of the backstretch, and getting a commanding lead came home in front of the others. The judges, however, decided a dead heat between him and Auburn Boy, the latter being second at the finish: Minnie third, Ben fourth, McGregor fifth and Bow Leggd Billy sixth, a quarter of a mile in the rear. The time of this heat was 2:43½. When the horses were started for the third heat McGregor quickly dashed to the front and showed the other horses the way to the end, winning the heat by half a dozen lengths; Charley second, Minnie third, Ben fourth, Auburn Boy fifth, Bow Legged Billy stopping before he had rotted 100 yards and retiring to the shed. The time of this heat was 2:42. In the fourth heat McGregor took the lead, was never approached and won as he liked by six lengths, Auburn Boy second, Charley third, Ben fourth and Minnie fifth. Time of the heat, 2:42½. Ben was withdrawn on the fifth and deciding heat. As in the two previous heats, McGregor dashed away with the lead, closely followed by Auburn Boy on a run, which the latter kept up until well around the little bay gelding kept on a trotail the way home, winning the heat and race in 2:43½. Auburn Boy came in second, Charley third and Minnie fourth. The following is a Summary.

PIGEON SHOOTING.

The members of the New York Gun Club held their regular weekly meeting yesterday afternoon on their grounds, at Bergen Point. The first event was a five bird sweep, in which Messrs. Dexter and Knowles both killed straight. They shot off, and Mr. Knowles took the first money. The next event was the third regular competition for the silver trophy. It has already been won by Mr. W. Murphy and Dr. Wilson. The birds were very good, and flev fast and strong. Mr. Godfrey shot remarkably well with a little six and a halt pound Daley, killing ten straight, out of which the first nine were dropped with the first barrel. This was good work at thirty yards on fast birds. Mr. Templeton killed his first nine in fair style, and missing his tenth, gave the trophy to Mr. Godfrey Messrs. Templeton and Knowles shot off for second money. They shot off bird and bird; Knowles

Messrs. Templeton and Knowles shot off for second money. They shot off bird and bird; Knowles missed his sixth, and, Templeton killing, won second money. The day's sport concluded with another five bird sweep, in which Messrs. Godfrey and Templeton killed their birds straight. They divided first and second money.

The members of the Middlesex Gun Club shot for a prize pigeon gun yesterday afternoon at Tronton, the prize being put up for competition by Dr. P. C. Mott, president of the club, to be shot for by members of the pigeon team only, among the members being several New York marksmen. The couditions were ten birds each, 21 yards rise, New York Sportsmen Association rules governing, single traps. The winner was P. Ellis, captain of the pigeon team, who won the club's championship badge also.

A number of New York and New Jersey sportsmen participated in pigeon sweepstakes matches at Somerville, N. J., yesterday atternoon, the conditions being handicap rise, five traps, English rules. In a match of five birds Charles D. Woods won first money against eight competitors, killing 5. Dowd won the second on a tie with Schenek and Lamar of 4 birds, killing 7 birds on a tie. In a three bird sweep, Schenck, of Elizabeth, won first share of the stakes on a tie with Woods, Dard and Smith, all of whom killed their birds. Second money went to Smith. In a sweep of 7 birds, 2 misses out, Smith, of New York, took first money, killing 6; Schienck, English and Powell tied on 5, Schenck taking second money. A 3 bird sweep ended the atternoon's sport, Campbell, Young, Dard and Farron killing all. The tie shot, miss a bird and Farron killing all. The tie shot, miss a bird and Farron killing all. The tie shot, miss a bird and retire, resulted in Campbell taking first money and Young second.

William Bayles, of New York, in a fifty-bird match, shot at Pamrapolyceterday, defeated Shade De Long, Jr., of Brocklyn. The conditions were:—60 birds, $25 a sia and cost of birds, 21 yards rise, single trap, Long Island rules. De Long was th

BOGARDUS ACCEPTS THE CHALLENGE

NEW YORK, Nov. 22, 1879.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:-I will accept the proposition of Mr. H. W. Beards-ley, of London, and will shoot a pigeon match against any four men he may name, and he need not name them until the day of shooting. I do not bar any. I will shoot each match for £300 a side, at 100 any. I will shoot each match for £300 a side, at 100 birds each, 30 yards rise, London Gun Club rules, with the exception that if I deem it necessary I can trap and handle out of the same lot of birds that my opponents are using. The matches to be shot in June or July next, and one match to be shot each week, or two matches a week, as I may choose after the first is shot. If shot in England Mr. Beardsiey to deposit £100 in the hands of Bell's Life in London for my expenses; also £500 as forfeit on the matches; and if shot in this country I will deposit £100 at the New York Clipper office for my opponents expenses, and also deposit £500 as forfeit on the matches. If the matches are to be shot in England I will name the places of shooting after I reach that country. Bell's Life to be stakeholder and referee. Yours, A. H. BOGARDUS.

MULDOON TO BAUER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:-

I will wrestle Mr. Thebaud Bauer best two out of three or best three out of five falls, according to the Græco-Roman rules, for a trophy, either beit or cup, to be valued at $500 or $1,000, each to con tribute one-half value toward said trophy. I also offer the same challenge to Professor Miller or Mr. McLaughlin. I will meet either of the above gentlemen at the Spirit of the Times office on Monday, November 24, at three o'clock P. M., fully prepared to arrange all preliminaries for a match. Respectfully yours.

VOICES FROM THE STEERAGE.

BAD FOOD AND NON-SEPARATION OF THE SEXES COMPLAINED OF-STATEMENTS IN DENIAL.

Commissioners of Emigration Kauffman, Starr and Huriburt continued the investigation at Castle Garden yesterday of the steerage abuses on the steamship Canada, of the French line, during her last trip from Havre to this port. Anton Webber, who swore that he had been authorized to make the complaints for other passengers, said that during the voyage the officers of the ship did not furnish the food speci fied in their contract. He stated that during two days only were the passengers served with the dinner and supper described on the bill of fare. He acknowledged, however, that they received plenty of meat, potatoes and bread, and that sometimes bouillon and potato salad were furnished. On three occasions, he claimed, the food furnished was insufficient, but he admitted that at the end of the voyage, when complaints were made to the steward, an dditional supply of eatables was given. He claimed that his party, being German, could not make their wants known to the officers of the ship. The claimed that his party, being German, could not make their wants known to the officers of the ship. The passengers never had soup or tea for breakfast, but only black coffee, with cognac brandy instead of milk. There was no separation of the sexes, and sailors were allowed to sleep in the steerage apartments. He said that families with small children were in the habit of using lamps to warm condensed milk, and that those were taken from them. When they remonstrated they were told to complain to Bismarck. He asserted that a woman and two children were very sick, and the doctor did not come near them for over two hours. The above testimony was indorsed by seventeen passengers in all particulars excepting the charge against the doctor.

Answer to these complaints Mr. Louis de Bébian, agent of the French line of steamers, said that the charge of not separating the sexes was the only real ground of complaint. He claimed that this was the tault of the passengers themselves, because families asked to be together and brought with them other persons. He said that in the future this would be remedied. He maintained that the food furnished was of the best quality. He acknowledged that brandy was given with coffee instead of milk, and said it was the custom on French vessels. Captain Franguel, of the Canada, testified that no complaints had been made to him during the voyage of the non-separation of the sexes. He had visited the steerage aimost every day, accompanied by the doctor and commissaire, and when he (the captain) was detained on deck the commissaire was obliged to report to him at nine o'clock each morning the condition and complaints of the steerage passengers. The purser testified that the food was excelent; that there was plenty of it, and that condensed milk was furnished to the women and children whenever it was asked for. The doctor of the Canada claimed that he had been very attentive to the steerage passengers. After hoaring the evidence the Commissioners decided that there were no grounds for complaints
